"If a board does not look at all like the market being served then something (BIG) is (BADLY) wrong!"
- Tom Peters, Re-Imagine! (2003)

Women represent a different and important voice in the boardroom. Only 13.6% of the seats on Fortune 500 boards are held by women. The demand for independent, qualified women and diverse candidates on boards is the latest tsunami to hit corporate doors. Women: A Board of Opportunity, presented by the Enterprise Institute of NAWBO-LA, is designed to provide new insight, build awareness and deliver critical resources to Los Angeles women and corporations who want to take part in leading the way towards equality on corporate boards.

Gaining a seat on corporate boards often requires a careful and strategic career planning process. It is critical for women candidates to possess the knowledge to successfully recognize and seize opportunities. At the breakfast forum, hear candid testimonials from women who have successfully maneuvered their way onto corporate boards; and leading industry experts who will outline the roadmap of success. They will provide unique perspectives on questions such as:

- Do women's voices make a difference on corporate boards?
- What skill sets and capabilities are required to be competitive?
- What does it take to get there?
